

high standards

Patient education is a critical component of Dr. Cruise’s high standard of care. Through a comprehensive Web site, in depth consultation and online social network, patients are invited to make educated decisions throughout the entire surgical process. “I routinely utilize computer imaging to help show patients what they can reasonably expect to look like after surgery. Involving patients in the process enables us to work together to design a personalized surgical plan tailored to meet their specific objectives.”

The respected plastic surgeon, who serves Newport Beach and Orange County, California, has considerable experience in facial, breast, and body-contouring plastic surgery. His belief in education as a major component of achieving successful outcomes has led to the development of CruisePlasticSurgery.com, a comprehensive plastic surgery Web site featuring numerous before-and-after photos of Dr. Cruise’s patients, detailed explanations about each procedure and three-dimensional animations. As a result, patients are able to become active participants in their surgical planning.

Another crucial component of the process is found within the patient consultation. During this initial meeting, patients spend a considerable amount of time becoming educated about their procedure by a well-trained, informative staff member and are then evaluated by Dr. Cruise. The evaluation is private, tailored to each patient’s needs, and may include digital imaging and reviews of before-and-after photos. According to Dr. Cruise, “Personalized care of this nature helps put patients at ease, making the process an enjoyable and rewarding journey.”

INSIDE INFORMATION

PLASTIC SURGERY FRIENDS

“Going through the plastic surgery experience with someone who has already done so is extremely beneficial in EASING PREOERATIVE ANXIETY,” says Dr. Cruise. This realization has led him to develop PLASTICSURGERYFRIENDS.ORG, an online plastic surgery social community. Through this network, patients may obtain pre- and post-operative information, reminders and important dates related to their surgery. In addition, people considering plastic surgery are able to CONNECT WITH OTHERS who have experienced the procedure firsthand. “This open forum allows those interested in plastic surgery to receive honest, straightforward answers to their personal questions in an anonymous, interactive environment. Put simply, it is fun for the patients, and the relationships created through the site are long-lasting.”
